MEET MICHELLE

Michelle Rayburn is a singer, songwriter, inspirational speaker and freelance writer from north central Wisconsin. She lives near Arrowhead Bible Camp where her husband serves as Director of Maintenance. Michelle and Phil have been married for 19 years and have two teenaged sons. In the last two decades, she has been a registered nurse, stay-at-home mom, wedding coordinator, rubber stamp demonstrator, custom painter and decorator, craft instructor, and web designer. She enjoys drawing and quilting, as well as scrapbooking; and she's an avid reader. Now, that's a lot of dots to connect!

Michelle has a Master of Arts in Ministry Leadership from Crown College with a counseling emphasis. She is a women's ministry leader in her church as well as co-director of music. She writes a monthly column in Wisconsin Christian News and her writing has appeared in many other magazines including: Focus on the Family, Victory in Grace, Indeed and Christian Communicator. She has also written radio scripts for Heartbeat of the Home and a Bible study for ChristianBibleStudies.com, a subsidiary of Christianity Today. Michelle has a chapter in an anthology for writers, “Writing so Heaven Will be Different.” She has recorded a CD entitled “His Autograph” with eleven of her original songs, and she has a single CD titled “Pray for the Soldiers.”

With her blend of solid biblical teaching, practical application, and humor, Michelle connects with the audience at the heart level. She writes her songs from personal experience and God's touch on her life, weaving her messages and her music together with her enthusiasm and passion for encouraging women.
